

Svetlana,

I know I expressed it earlier in class today, but I truly need you to know that reading and exploring Chekhov with you is a blessing, a blessing I must take full advantage of. I am learning more and more that it isn't about messing up or not messing up, but how I go about finding the right choice. I left class with a new approach on where to go in the scene and a new outlook on Sonya, which alone is enough to leave me grasping for more. Your effort is greatly appreciated and my passion for acting continues to splurge each class.

Once again thank you for everything,

Quinn
